Safe Home Remedy for Skin-Troubles

Eczema, ringworm, and other itching, burning skin eruptions are so easily made worse by improper treatment that one has to be very careful. There is one method, however, that you need never hesitate to use, even on a baby's tender skin—that is the resinol treatment. Resinol is the prescription of a Baltimore doctor, put up in the form of resinol ointment and resinol soap. This proved so remarkably successful, that thousands of other physicians have prescribed it constantly for over twenty years.

Generally resinol stops itching at once, and heals the eruption quickly and at little cost. Resinol ointment and resinol soap can be bought at any druggist's.

Resinol Soap is not only unusually cleansing and softening, but its regular use gives to the skin and hair that natural beauty of perfect health which cosmetics can only imitate.

Advocate for the People.

The personal and official power of the president has been the last resort of the nation in the dispute between the railroads and their employees. Those of us who draw neither wages nor dividends from railroading have a side in the dispute which is not the side of the railroad magnates and is not the side of the well-organized train employees. We want to be able to travel and to have the goods which we use or manufacture transported to their destination. The president represents that side.

Conferences between masters and men failed. The ordinary machinery for peaceful adjustment of labor disputes failed. A summons to the White House was the last resort.

The first citizen of the United States, selected once in four years to watch over our interests from Washington, has great powers under our form of government. These are laid down in the constitution, but because he is president he has additional powers. In times of crisis the country looks to him for help. When the president has done his utmost there is nothing more to be done.

The unwritten, unformulated, possible power of the president is something which the American people have in their minds when they cast their ballots. It is for this reason that when the president tries to bring peace in this great industrial dispute he has the backing of a power far greater than unions or the railroads' managers. He is there for 100,000,000 people. He is there to uphold the rights of those people.—Boston Globe.
